End-of-semester
Sit-down Charity Dinner

Cause

Our home of South Asia is a beautiful, vibrant place bustling with culture, and we are all proud to call it home. Just like with anywhere, it also faces real challenges, such as the deficit in the rights awarded to women, educational opportunities, poverty and food security, human rights and press freedom, and many more.

A charity dinner is an excellent way to bring about support for any cause. We've seen that charity dinners bring in more donations than a simple fundraiser or appeal; people feel like they're getting more for their money over a donation.

Education
Education and its access continues to be limited for many people living in South Asia. While literacy rates are improving, obstacles remain in place for those who are poor or live in rural areas.

Environment/Climate
Natural disasters devastate communities quickly, so we'd be raising money for immediate relief.

Women's rights
It's a sad reality that women are still not given the same footing as men in many regards, such as employment, and they are disproportionately the victims of domestic violence.

Where did “Sangam” Come from?

Sangam is a Sanskrit-derived word meaning “union” or “coming together” - the exact same way our 6 societies are coming together for this night and for a shared cause

Format

- Sit-down charity dinner
- Timed after exams - end of semester party
- Bar tab ommitted - large expense

Why a sit-down ball?

- The calendar is already saturated with a stand-up event from almost all our societies - 8 across 5 societies.
- How many sit-down balls? Just 1
- People are hungry for an end-of-semester gala - where they can dress up, the speeches have weight, and they can bear witness to a date auction - the first in UQ's history.

Date Auction

- Traditionally, a date auction was when a person puts their time up for auction. In essence, you would bid to go on a date with that person, and the highest bidder wins and gets to go on a date with them.
- It is a little weird, BUT

- The date auction is fully opt-in, no exec should be pressured into doing it, especially because the bulk of our donation will come from ticket sales.
- The lunches will be chaperoned as we book out a restaurant and keep tabs on all execs for their wellbeing.
- All contact is done through official channels and society pages, no phone numbers are given out unless an exec wants to keep things going after.

Why these 6 clubs?

These six clubs, PA, GS, ISC, TELS, NC, SLA, are the largest, most active South Asian societies at UQ. A shared cause means shared impact, shared reach, and a night that reflects how connected our communities already are.

Also because I know it'll be a fun night for all involved.

How and what do we split?

Sit-down balls can be expensive, so it would be preferable to split the cost to each society's ability. Profits from tickets are not split, as they're donated to charity. Each society should be able to recoup what they spend on this event from ticket sales.
From this there is no splitting of ticket sales, instead each society is simply reimbursed for what they spent.

There should be neither a loss nor a profit. Everyone is happy, plus with 6 clubs we should get good turnout - maximising our donation.

All upfront society contributions are fully reimbursed from gross ticket revenue before net proceeds are donated

Come talk to me

Planning for this event should start in Semester 2, but it would be good to look around for venues that can accommodate 500 sitting down, can cater at a competitive price, as well as a good cause from one of the ones shortlisted.

A note on sponsors

If you could reach out to your current sponsors that would be much appreciated; of course a lot of the funds are going towards charity so I'm sure current sponsors would love to come support.

We should be open to giving them a shoutout on the night, and if they're really special we should be able to display their logo on the screens throughout.

A new event for all of us
